Middle School Parent and Family Engagement Policy

PART I. Description of the Implementation of the Middle School Parent and Family Engagement Policy Components

The Middle School Parent and Family Engagement Policy, consistent with the District-Wide Parent and Family Engagement Policy, has been organized through the research-based frameworks of Joyce Epstein from the National Network of Partnership 2000 Schools and the Center on School, Family, and Community Partnerships at Johns Hopkins University. The six types of parental involvement used in the Epstein model have been adopted by the National PTA and used in establishing National Standards. The organization of the West New York Parent and Family Engagement Program through the six National Standards/Framework is as follows:

- Type I—Parenting: Assist families with parenting and child-rearing skills, understanding child and adolescent development, and setting home conditions that support children as students at each age and grade level.
 - Type II—Communicating: Communicate with families about school programs and student progress through effective school-to-home and home-to-school communications.
 - Type III—Volunteering: Improve recruitment, training, work and schedules to involve families as volunteers and audiences at the school or in other locations to support students and school programs.
 - Type IV—Learning at Home: Involve families with their children in learning activities at home, including homework and other curriculum-linked activities and decisions.
 - Type V—Decision-Making: Include families as participants in school decisions, governance and advocacy through PTA/PTO, school councils, committees, and other parent organizations.
 - Type VI—Collaborating with the Community: Coordinate resources and services for families, students, and the school with businesses, agencies, and other groups, and provide services to the community.
